

So Cold
Oshima Brothers

I guess I lost you in the skyline
Too many things ahead to look behind
I guess I lost you to the wild night
Ten million candles in the sky

You got no brakes on the freeway
And you got handfuls of my heart

You're so cold
When you hold me
I don't want the chills to go away
When you're home
It felt like we were whole
But now I fall apart with all this space

You rollercoasted to a new place
And left me breathlessly without a trace
And I've been feeling like a fool
Cause you left me a note to say we're through

You got no brakes on the freeway
And you got handfuls of my heart

You're so cold
When you hold me
I don't want the chills to go away
When you're home
It felt like we were whole
But now I fall apart with all this space

I don't know why I find, it burning in my eyes, the after fire of you
Crimson tail lights behind, somewhere in the skyline, I reach out for you darling but

You're so cold
When you hold me
I don't want the chills to go away
When you're home
It felt like we were whole
But now I fall apart with all this space